PLATO AGAINST THE ATHEISTS, OR TENTH BOOK OF THE Laws: By TAYLER LEWIS. New-York: Harper & Brothers; 1845.

A wise man said that it would more avail us to bend our minds on the 'ignorance of Plate,' than the knowledge of other men. And so it is. The passage of centuries, the services of a million comtators, the long line of philosophical posterity, who have shared the name and copied the features, rial energy of Plato, have had no power to waste his reasoning by diffusion. Still the expression of mountain, which all eyes may see, towering to the heavens, but which only the boldest and freest foot may hope partly to climb. The loadstone has communicated magnetic power to a million bodies, without any perceptible diminution of its own.

The father of lies, who teaches men in their lower moments a base sneer at that part of their life which tends to immortality, can as yet find no better term than Pharonic by which to assail the noblest desire by wisdom to comprehend the uni verse and draw near to its soul, by aspiration t purify human Love.

The action of the mind of Plato is such that it is impossible to read or repeat him with absolute servility. It is impossible to get at the outmost sense sense of his speech without some action of one's to re-create the world, unless with him you pass through the successive efforts of its animating powthe would be philosopher: "In all cases serve

"The work has been the result of a careful examination of the Platonic writings; in which we amusation of the Platonic writings; in which we have sought to interpret Plato mainly by himself, and by the aid, on the one hand, of his realoustival, and by the aid, on the one hand, of his jealous rival, Aristotle, and on the other, of his enthusiastic admirer, Cicero. Of medera critical and philosophical helps, whether English or German, we make intie display, because, in fact, we have made but little or ao use of them. In regard to the text, we have followed that of Bekker and Ast, who hardly differ at all, either in words, or amountation. hitle display, because, in fact, we have made but little or ao use of them. In regard to the text, we have followed that of Bekker and Ast, who have followed that of the reasons are assigned, mainly in the short motes. The critical means within our power have been very limited, and we therefore, in this department, ask indulgence for any errors which may have been committed. For the philosophical opinions advanced no such plea is interposed, By their own merit, and their accordance with the true interpretation of the Platonic system, they stand or fall.

Committee—Ole Bullet on Andred Tom Cincinnati—well done, Campanologians! One design of the work is to serve as a text-"One design of the work is to serve as a text-book for senior classes in college, not so much by way of furnishing an exercises in the study of the Greek language, as for the higher object of exhibiting, in connexion with the Platonic, the other systems of Greek philosophy, and their bearing upon the Christian theology. On the same grounds, it is supposed that it may be found useful to students in our theological seminaries, and form no unprofitable addition to the libraries of clergymen, besides commonding useful generally to the attention of our scholars and literary men."

"We speak with confidence on this point. The young man who is an enthusiastic student of Plato can never be a sciolist in regard to education, a quack in literature, a demagogue in politics, or an antidel in religion.

"Our main object, then, is to recommend this noble philosopher to the present generation of educated young men, especially to our theologians—
The present work by no means prolesses to set forth his system as a whole, but merely to present some of its attractive points, to allure other minds amone us to a more thorough examination. The main doctrine of ideas, although aluded to in almost every dissertation, is not discussed under its own title, obcounce we had formed the design, if permitted to accomplish it, and if the present work should be acceptable to the public, of treating it by itself in be acceptable to the public, of treating it by itself in be acceptable to the public, of treating it by itself in an examination of another of the most interesting of the Platonic dialogues."

Correspondence of The Tribune.

St. Louis, April 27, 1945.

I am just arrived in this city from Havana. When I left that place, there was little of imortance in the way of news, which you have not tre this received. Several reports were in circular to take some medicine—but both were refused, and demanded the powder and pills, as she wished to take some medicine—but both were refused. As lation the day before the New-Otleans Steamer arrived, as she was three days behind her usual time, that the Mexicans had captured her, and it became quite current that the Mexicans had captured her, and it became quite current that the Mexicans had captured became quite current that the Mexicans had captured became quite current that the Mexicans could be considered to make a post mortion examination. Accordingly became quite current that the Mexicans could be considered to make a post mortion of the powder now took place, and then for the first time the idea went abroad that there had been tool play. to re-create the world, unless with him you pass through the successive efforts of its animating powers, you cannot speak of him or even read him. The attempt which Mephistopheles recommends to the would be philosopher: "In all cases serve the would be philosopher: "In all cases serve yourself with words," is useless here. You cannot other, that he has managed to exceed the allowed the successive efforts of him or even read him. The attempt which Mephistopheles recommends to the world are plenty respecting. Santa Aha, some saying that he will soon be in power again, others, that he has managed to exceed with a large yourself with words," is useless here. You cannot a men delight to do, catch up some superficial statement whereby to defraud yourself and others of the natural influence of great truths, great life. These flauds of indolence and vanity cannot be practised here. The hand of the intellectual sharper is palsied when he strives to take up this gold. It really argues good, argues activity and hope for a man even to read Plato.

Knowing this, we must hail with pleasure the appearance of this book in aid of the student. Plato is given in the original Greek, but the volume Plato is given in the original Greek, but the volume as the river is now failing very fast, and severa cared for when the water is up so that there is n

This book "was chosen as forming, in our judgment, one of the best positions from whence to make excursions over a large part of the Platonic philosophy. * * * Our object has not been merely to make a classical text-book, but to recommend Plato to the student or reader by every means through which attention could be drawn to our favortre author; believing that in no other way could way render a better service to the cause of cological as of a critical character.

"The longer dissertations annexed, and which, rithe reader's convenience, we have divided into ambered sections, with general and running titles, and except the contracted for this season. There are immense resources to make this the devoted almost entirely to the elucidation of the divided into the contracted for this season. There are immense resources to make this the divided into the d numbered sections, with general and running titles, are devoted almost entirely to the elucidation of some of the main points of the Platonic philosophy, in their connexion with other systems of antiquity, to a comparison, wherever there was occasion to it, with the sentiments of Aristotle, illustrations drawn from the Grecian poets, together with a continual reference to the Holy Scriptures, by way of resemblance, contrast, agreement, or condemnation. For these purposes, there have been introduced from almosts all other Platonic dialogues. though two miles from the Court-House. One improvement is much needed, to wit, street lighting, as it is at the risk of one's neck to walk about own on a dark evening. There are several Indian from those one with the subject discussed, would promote our main design, by producing in the reader a desire to have a deeper knowledge of Plator than segenerally possessed by the greater part of our philosophical and theological writers. To these quotations, in almost every case, full translations have been given, sometimes literal, and sometimes paraphrastic. The exceptions to this course are, when the nature and substance of the quotation were sufficiently indicated by the manner of its introduction. The invain references are to the Timaus, the Republic, the Phasdon, Gorgias, Theistetus, Parmendes, Philebus, Protagoras, Symposion, Potalifornia and the Columbia River—year can hardly imagine the tide that ebbs to that Fur West. hardly imagine the tide that ebbs to that Far West I leave the city to-morrow for Alton, which lies twenty-live miles farther up the river. Rumor from Nashville, says that General Jackson's death is daily and hourly expected. Ole Bull is here and gives his first concert this evening—Ludlow and Smith also open their theatre, with the celebrated "Bell-Ringers," who are advertised for five nights only. These geniuses have become real starg—they gave a concert last Saturday night in aid of the funds for the sufferers of Pittsburgh, and have tendered the profits, Three Hundred Dollars, to the Committee—Ole Bull sent one hundred from Cincinnatit—well done, Campannologians! THOMPSON'S TRUSSES, Office 13 Beakman street. About 300 of the first physicians and surgeons of New-York have given their decided preference to this Truss, as you can graduate the pressure from one to fifty pounds on the rupture, without a back pad, which does so much injury to the spine. A fair trial being the best test of its superiority, it is applied and six days' trial given; and if it does not retain the rupture, while performing every kind of exercise or coughting, and give perfect ease—in a word, if it is not satisfactory in every respect, the money is cheerfully ercise or coughing, and give perfect ease—in a word, if it is not satisfactory in every respect, the money is cleerfully returned; and this is the only condition on which you should buy any Trias. A permanent cure is easily effected, and warranted, if directions are followed.

Those sending for this Trues need only mention the side ruptured and the measure round the hips, as they can graduate the pressure to sait their case. Sold wholesale and retail at 13 Beekman-st.
